What Choice For President?

We all must realize by now that the American two-party political system is but another example of dialectics in action. In recent years, particularly since the end of World War II, we have recognized that both of the major parties are related to each other. The power behind the scenes controls both nominees.

The controlled news media sees to it that no other candidate is even discussed except in a very negative sense. Then, once the primaries are over and the controlled candidates are selected at the conventions, the news media leads the public to believe that the voters truly have a choice.

The American public has finally become aware of this very simple, but evil, system. They feel that there is nowhere they can go. Consequently, many members of the old time American families are failing to vote. This, in turn, is allowing the recent immigrants, legal or illegal, to join the election system. This is particularly so since the government has conveniently relaxed the requirements for voter registration. The end result is that the government of the United States, and thus the country itself, is being taken away from the American citizens.

Now that power that controls both of the major political parties is fully aware of the disenfranchisement of the American voter. They would naturally have hoped that this ruse could have continued forever. After all, they fear, if the American public becomes truly aroused, they might just do something rash, even violent! But, whatever happens, they do not plan on relinquishing control!

So what would that power (international bankers and multi-national corporations) that has so conveniently controlled both parties do to cause the American people to believe they have a choice? If the American people think they have a choice and that choice gets elected, they will return to their tranquil state of thinking that the government is being properly run.

Obviously, nothing beats success like success. Theodore Roosevelt, of the Progressive Party, ran as a third party candidate in 1912 because the American people were disgusted then, just like today. But we thought that the power behind the scenes only allowed two parties, so that there was always the dialectics that could be controlled, didn't we? That is only until they need to make a slight correction. Of course, the controlled news media, the controlled political observers, the controlled polls, etc. have to be let in on the little secret.

So, who is Ross Perot? Doesn't it seem strange that a super-rich man comes in from the wings and presents himself as the one, and only one, who can bring order out of chaos because of his vast economic expertise? Based on that, and that alone, the polls now rate him higher than either King George or Slick Willie. All that Don Perote has to say, when asked what the details of his policies are, is: "Trust me! I will let you know the details when I get them figured out!"

Ross Perot was a computer software salesman who started his road to riches by obtaining the lucrative contract for the sale of software to the Federal Government in its Medicare and Medicaid programs. He parlayed that into a substantial commercial venture. His ability to lead a commercial venture to success is notable and should be accounted to his credit. The knowledge that it is associated with the government should not in itself be a question. But, what with the track record of the corporation-government collusions, we must consider it.

It is nearly impossible for a man of Ross Perot's wealth to be totally unknown. He has, on many occasions, told his audiences what he believes and his position on many things that affect the way of life in the United States. We will try to relate just a few of the things we know about him based on reports received from credible sources.

Perot is for total gun control. He is pro-abortion. He is a student of the totalitarian concept of total people control as now exercised in Indonesia and elsewhere. He admires the use of the hi-tech system of surveillance being used there.

He told a news conference, following a speech he gave to the American Jewish Committee, that he supported Israel, but that he is still studying the issue of the loan guarantees and the West Bank settlements. He said he was not an authority on the subject but he is still studying the issues. He stated that "you don't cut and run under pressure." He described Israel as "a beacon to its part of the world in terms of its democratic government." He stated, "I feel very strongly that Israel has not fully tapped the potential of all the great intellects in that country." He reminded the American Jewish Committee that there is a bust of Raoul Wallenberg outside his Dallas office. That statue "is a constant reminder in my life of what man is capable of inflicting on other people. That's a problem we have to face." He reflected to the audience that he remembers his visit of several days with Ariel Sharon following the Six-Day War. "Until the day I die," he said, "I will never forget when my 12-year-old son, suddenly started asking the man who won the Six- Day War questions about strategy and tactics, and Gen. Sharon treated him like another man."

In the May-June, 1991 issue of the Intelligence Newsletter, we pointed out that Queen Elizabeth of England did not come to the United States to watch a baseball game with President Bush! She came to try to get him back on track after he badly conducted the Iraqi conflict and then the Kurdish genocide following the war. To show her gratitude to the one man who did his job correctly, General Swartzkopf, she bestowed the knighthood of the Order of the Bath. That Order is an integral part of the system of secret societies and the occult behind the power for totalitarian one world order. We can proudly say all we want to that his knighthood was only "honorary," since this country does not recognize nobility. But think about it. When a person is given an "honorary" doctorate degree by a university or college, what do we call him and how do we address mail to him? We call him "Doctor" so-and-so, don't we? What does the establishment call Kissinger? He is called "Dr. Kissinger."

Prince Charles, the next King of England, awarded Mr. Ross Perot the distinguished and esteemed gold medallion of the Winston Churchill of the United States Foundation. Among others who have received that award have been ex-prime minister Margaret Thatcher and W. Averell Harriman. Mr. Harriman is the "Skull and Bones Godfather." It is all in the "family," isn't it?

What this probably means is that the Anglophile International Banking dynasty has dumped Bush and is backing Perot, again just like Teddy and the Bull Moose Party.

What potential danger does all of this forebode for the Christians of America? The New World Order, as envisioned by the elite, is marching on towards completion. George Bush is only a tool, as apparently is Ross Perot. It is hard to believe that Bush will give up without a fight. He is too egotistical for that. He wants to be the knight on their white horse. Consequently, we can expect severe disruptions of the peace this summer and fall. After all, "we can't change horses in mid- stream, can we?"

Could they even cancel the elections in a time of crisis that would require the Federal Emergency Management Administration to rule the government with martial law? We are living in exciting times. But remember, God is in control of the whole story. From adversity and conflict comes opportunity.

The Los Angeles Riots-Only The Beginning?

The Los Angeles riots are over, at least for the time being. The immediate evaluation by the analysts, for whatever it is worth, is that the looting and the torching of the businesses was primarily conducted by gangs and by others mainly for a lark. Only after the riots ceased did many of the Black leaders indicate that the riots were really in protest of how the American society has treated the Blacks in the inner-cities.

That analysis by the government and media spokesmen is a cover-up for a much more serious situation. For the president and other government officials very quickly to respond with pledges for substantial financial aid to correct the alleged mistreatment is the sign that there is trouble ahead.

Two of the known street gangs, the Crips and the Bloods, had a mini-summit meeting and decided to "bury the hatchet," so to speak. What was not publicly stated by them were their plans to join forces to attack what they would term, "The Establishment." Several ministers within the Black community, and others, hinted as much in their public statements.

Several reports have been received from individuals who have positions in strategic locations. They state that as many as fifteen different cities are bracing for the same treatment this summer, apparently after July 4th.

Although we here at the Intelligence Newsletter do not have enough substantiated information to make a firm statement, we would be delinquent if we did not say that you need to be prepared for this eventuality, particularly if you live in any of the larger cities.

There are many things that can be done if your city seems to be getting ready for a conflict of this sort. You will be able to sense this by carefully reading the newspapers and watching the newscasts. Just like it was with the Rodney King case in Los Angeles, there will usually be stories in the news that tell you that trouble is brewing.

The best thing, of course, is to get out of town for awhile if at all possible. But this is not possible in so many cases and we recognize that. The next best thing is to have as many in the family go visit relatives who live in small towns or in the country. This, too, is not always possible. If you simply have to stay in the city, even after you have the strong feeling of trouble being imminent, there are still things you can do.

First, start by storing enough food to last your family for at least two weeks. It is surprising how many people have only enough food in the pantry for a day or so. You would be getting awfully hungry after a few days if you couldn't get to a grocery store. Besides, there might not be food in the grocery store, even if you could make it there safely. Store food that doesn't require refrigeration such as canned foods, dried fruits and dried foods. There would be no waste even if nothing happens. The saved food is there to be used.

Second, store water in sufficient quantities for your needs. You can do without a bath for quite a while but you need water to drink. Prepare for an alternate latrine system. When the city water is shut off, your toilet won't work! Purchase the small, portable type toilet that is used in camping. The used plastic bags can be stored until later.

Next, if there are specific medicines that you require, make sure that you have an ample supply. Make sure that you have a first aid kit that is adequate for such an emergency.

Make sure that you have an adequate supply of batteries for flashlights and other types of emergency lighting such as candles and propane camp lights. Don't forget the matches!

Think about some fire extinguishers. Collect some basic tools such as an axe, pry bar, shovel, hammer, screwdrivers, nails, screws, etc. You are on your own in such an emergency.

The summer months generally are warm enough that you will not need emergency heat. But think about it for the winter months if it comes to that. The same situation applies for adequate clothing.

Last, but by no means least, think about your inalienable rights for self defense. Don't be bashful about it, either!

None of these things would be wasted if nothing happens. There is probably no one among the citizenry who really knows what is going to happen this summer. But you can rest assured the government knows and they won't be forewarning you! They should be but they won't. So you will have to do it on your own. Wouldn't it be better to be on the safe side and make your plans?

Lesson In History Part 17

In our Lesson in History, part 16, we closed with the thought that we, in Christian America, should never have related the founding of the United States with the landing in San Salvador of Christopher Columbus, and those who followed (under the flag of Spain). Their conquest of Mexico and the rest of the Americas simply did not have the same purpose as that of the Pilgrims.

The Pilgrims came to America and landed at Plymouth Rock for the purpose of furthering the Kingdom of God here on earth. They came with a Bible in one hand and a rifle in the other. The governments back in England and Holland may have had other ideas but our forefathers knew that the Christian Kingdom of God was right here on earth and they were going to help build it. The Mayflower Compact, prepared by the Pilgrims just before they landed at Plymouth Rock, Mass. tells why they came to America:

"In the name of God, Amen. We whose names are under- written, the loyal subjects of our dread Sovereign Lord King James by the Grace of God of Great Britain, France, Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, etc."

"Having undertaken, for the glory of God and advancement of the Christian Faith and honor of our King and country, a voyage to plant the first colony in the northern parts of Virginia, do by these presents solemnly and mutually in the presence of God and one of another, covenant and combine ourselves together into a civil body politic, for our better ordering and preservation and furtherance of the ends aforesaid, and by virtue hereof to enact, constitute and frame such just and equal laws, ordinances, acts, constitutions and offices from time, as shall be thought most meet and convenient for the general good of the colony. Unto which we promise all due submission and obedience. In witness whereof we have hereunder subscribed our names at Cape Cod, the 11th of November, in the year of the reign of our Sovereign King James of England...Anno Domini 1620."

But as we shall see, the motives for the expeditions of Columbus were vastly different. It is true that those who came to the Caribbean and then into Mexico did so under the banner of Christ, just as the Pilgrims did. But were there deep, underlying motives that our establishment history books have failed to mention?

"Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? and what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?"

"And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty." II Cor 6:14-18

That admonition was written when there was a war of ideals raging between the followers of Jesus Christ (the Saviour of Israel) and the followers of the Oral Law (the Pharisees known as the Talmudists). That war has never ended.

The Talmudic Oral Laws have always been so enticing because they allow for a behaviour and a lifestyle that the written Word of God does not permit. Under the Oral Law everything is shades of gray with nothing a clear black and white. Perhaps the most enticing point about the Oral Law of Talmudism, other than the relaxed rules of morality, is the use of usury or the loaning of money at interest. Whenever and wherever usury is permitted, sooner or later the conditions that were prevalent in Spain at the time of the voyages of Columbus will be made manifest. Try as we will to rid ourselves of the Laws, Statutes and Judgments of God by erroneously reading their removal into the New Testament (or by any other ruse), we eventually return to God's Laws and rid ourselves of the proponents of Talmudic Law. History proves that it always ends this way and it is always violent.

Those history books that failed to tell us of the real motives for the exploration of the Americas by Spain have been very quick to tell the world that the great eviction of the Jews from all of the countries of Europe was started in England by King Edward I in the year 1290 and that he was a "Racist, Extremist and Anti-Semitic." Actually, he was coerced into signing the great eviction notice by the people of England but that is another lesson. The other countries of Europe followed his lead and in 1492, Spain was the last to drive the Jews out of their country.

In every case, it was the Christian Church that started the action. In Europe the predominant belief was that of the Catholic Church. In Catholic Spain the Jews were treated very kindly, just as they are now in the United States and, for that matter, in all of the other Celto-Saxon countries. From the Jews' point of view, the 1000 year millennium before 1492 was considered the golden age of Spain and Portugal. These people were protected by the kings and utilized as treasurers, tax collectors (they were called tax farmers), lawyers and of course, money lenders.

But they were under increasing pressure from the Church because of the heresies that they were intentionally planting into the Church, as well as their excesses as tax collectors and money lenders. The Pope finally initiated what we know as the Inquisition. It was within the Inquisition that the Catholic Church made its most terrible strategic blunder. In doing what they did, they failed the admonition (previously quoted) that Paul so very clearly gave us is II Cor. 6. The final results have been that the entire Christian Kingdom of God has suffered in general and the Catholic Church has suffered in particular.

What did the Catholic Church do? It gave the Jews the option of being baptized and converting to Catholicism. The Jews of Spain and Portugal took them up on it and were baptized in wholesale numbers and joined the Church. As a result of this horrible blunder on the part of the Catholic Church, the Jews were now within the church like the Trojan horse, with some of them rising to the higher ranks within the Church. They could now even more efficiently implant their heresies. All the while that they pretended to be Christian, they still practiced their Jewish faith. The name converso, or converted, was given to the multitude of Jews who were baptised and claimed to be Christian. Within that group of conversos were the marranos. They were the Jews who supposedly converted but actually remained Jews in thought and action. The problem was that nearly all, if not all, of the conversos still remained loyal to the Jewish cause. As we shall see, that situation has plagued all of us to this very day.

When the Catholic Church finally realized its blunder, it sought out the marrano Jews and systematically executed them by burning them at the stake. The undercover investigations to find them would have made the KGB, CIA and the FBI look like school boys. They found them within the nobility and even they weren't spared.

These were the circumstances in Spain when Queen Isabella and King Ferdinand finally, on the 30th of March, 1492, gave the known Jews four months to leave the country. Some went to Sicily and some went to Holland. The conversos, of course, did not leave because they were now Christians, weren't they? But the marranos who had not yet been found out were living from day to day, knowing that they had to leave or face the stake. In reality, all of the conversos knew that they would one day need to find a new home because of their true sympathies.

Many of them were within the household of the royal family. The king and queen's advisors were conversos and later found out to be marranos. The king's treasurer was a marrano. It was this group of very powerful men who found the money to finance the voyages of Columbus. They had very personal reasons to find a way to get the thousands upon thousands of Jews out of Spain before they were executed.

It is not the purpose of this lesson to prove, one way or the other, the geneology of Columbus. For several hundred years now that argument has flourished. The Italians claim him to be Italian. The Spanish researchers claim that he was born in Spain of a Jewish family. We have read the research that has been done, some of it by Jewish historians, some of it by Catholic Church historians and some by plain Spanish historians. Perhaps, strangely, the Catholic Church historians lean towards Columbus being a Jew. In our opinion, for whatever it is worth, he was a Spanish converso, born of Jewish parents and named Cristobal Colombo. He borrowed the name of Christopher Columbus from a Christian Italian young man of about the same age but in no way related. Again, this lesson in history will include a bibliography. Because the matter is so delicate, we will include a larger than normal bibliography for those who want to study the matter in greater detail.

Either way, it doesn't make any difference. What counts is what he knowingly did. His first and foremost mission was to get the finances for his voyages. Spanish historians know that the marranos, who were the immediate advisors of the king and queen, advised them to grant the money for the voyages of Columbus. They told the king that they would find a way to obtain the money to pay for the voyages. The marrano advisors had already obtained the promise of the required money from the other wealthy Jews of Spain but the king and queen did not know that. Of course, these advisors were trying desperately to find a way to get the marranos out of the country before they were found and executed. The king and queen accepted the proposals.

Foremost among the marrano advisors to the king was Luis de Santangel. He played such an important part in providing the money for Columbus' voyage that his statue occupies a place on the great Columbus monument in Barcelona. The Santangel family was among the wealthiest, the most influential, and the most powerful in all of Aragon (a part of Spain). The Santangels came from a place called Calatayud, or Calatal-Yehud, one of the wealthiest Jewish communities in Spain. Because of their wealth, the Santangel family obtained high offices in the government. The Santangels were the Rothschilds of the time. It was because of the most pressing need to get the Jews out of Spain that Luis de Santangel loaned the crown 17,000 ducats, interest free, to equip Columbus' ships for the voyage.

Columbus had reverted to his original name of Colombo while in the presence of the advisors to the king and queen. The word Colombo is of Jewish origin and it means Jonah or dove, according to the Jewish historian, Cecil Roth. The marrano advisors knew that Columbus would be their man. Again, whether he was a Jew or not is not the point. He claimed to be one around them.

Columbus knew that American continents were here and he knew exactly where they were. He knew of the maps of the Libyans, the Carthaginians, the mariners from Tarshish, the Romans and the Vikings. He deliberately said he was going to India. He even discussed such names as Kubla Khan and Cathay.

The reason for the misinformation about India is obvious. Talk among the European Jews at the time was wild with tales of the discovery of the lost ten tribes of Israel after Marco Polo returned from his overland route and said that he found Jews living on an island off the coast of India. This was an additionally powerful incentive for the funding of his voyage.

Also, he knew the tales of fabulous wealth in gold and silver, particularly of the Seven Cities of Cibola in the land of the Toltecus in the New World. He demanded from the king and queen that he receive one tenth of all gold, silver and precious gems that all of the expeditions that followed would find. He also demanded to be named Admiral of the Ocean Sea. The king and queen reluctantly agreed to these demands, of course with a little nudging from Luis de Santangel!

So it appears that even Queen Isabella and King Ferdinand knew that here was the chance to find a home for the marranos. To tie the package all together, the date of the promulgation of the expulsion edict to the people of Spain was made on the same day that they were told that Columbus was funded to make his voyages. Was that a coincidence?

Queen Isabella and King Ferdinand were a unique combination. The Queen was very devout in her Catholic faith and consequently, whenever the Church spoke, she responded with fervor. The King, on the other hand, was more political in his nature. His concern was for the geopolitics of the matter and what would be best for his financial position. But then, King Ferdinand himself was partly Jewish on his mother's side! His mother was the granddaughter of the wealthy Jewess Paloma of Toledo. Thus, he, too, had more than a passing interest in a safe place for the Spanish Jews. The marriage between Isabella of Castile and Ferdinand of Aragon was arranged by Rabbi Abraham Seneor, Isabella's chief tax collector!

The marriage between Isabella and Ferdinand was not popular with the Castilian grandees. They wanted her to marry either the king of England or the king of Portugal. The objections were largely from the ecclesiastics of the Catholic Church and those in favor were primarily from the powerful and wealthy Jews of both Aragon and Castile. The treasury of Aragon was depleted at the time and wealthy marranos provided the money for young Ferdinand to visit Isabella. The bridal gift was provided by wealthy marranos of both parts of Spain.

"Confidence in an unfaithful man in time of trouble is like a broken tooth, and a foot out of joint". (Proverbs 25:19) The history that is to unwind during the remainder of this lesson should show us that the Laws of God apply to an entire nation of people just as they do individuals.

When Columbus first landed in the Western Hemisphere he immediately started the search for gold. He came upon the Arawak Indians who were very timid and even cowardly. Columbus saw that here, in the Indians, was the source of slaves for labor. These Indians were totally annihilated within a few years. He pressed on, from island to island, searching. He knew he was somewhere close to the huge quantities of gold that the stories of just a few hundred years before him had related.

He found some gold on the island of Hispaniola and Jamaica. This is what he needed in order to show the king and queen of Spain that it was time to start a significant expedition to the new world and this they did. Each successive trip of ships and men to the so-called new world found more and more gold. During the four voyages of Columbus, he had traveled to what is now Panama, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and other parts of Central America. His last voyage was in 1502, just a very few years before the time of Cortez and his Conquistadores of Mexico. These Spaniards truly found a new home for the marranos.

There is an old wives' tale that says, "When someone hands you a lemon, make lemonade." In 1502, the same year as the last voyage of Columbus, Juan Sanchez of Saragossa, Spain received permission from King Ferdinand to establish trading posts in the "New World." He brought to Cuba five shiploads of merchandise to trade with the natives. Juan Sanchez was a marrano. He was the nephew of Ferdinand's treasurer, who also was a marrano, of course.

Other conversos, who were noblemen, followed immediately. They received large tracts of land from the king and raised their families in the new world. The king and queen knew that the marranos were coming to the new world. In 1509 an agreement was reached allowing any Jew to travel to the new world if they would pay the crown 20,000 ducats each. The ransom was then raised to 40,000 ducats and then, even to 80,000 ducats. It is significant that they had the money with which to pay! There is no question but that they controlled the economy and politics of Spain. Remember, this was solely because they had the "license" from the king to loan money at usury which, of course, is banking. With that money in Spain they could send their children to the finest schools, live in the finest homes, and receive ranks of nobility. With that extraordinary education, they became the lawyers, judges and statesmen. The ordinary Spanish citizen, Christian by faith, was denied the financial wherewithal to rise above the peasant class. Whatever meager earnings that he labored for was taxed by the king's "tax farmers" to the extent that he was always struggling to feed his family.

When so-called conversos arrived in the new world with adequate money to travel and set up their shops, they quickly reverted to openly practicing their Jewish faith.

The earliest outposts of Judaism were in Cuba, Jamaica, Barbados, Tabago, Martinique, Curacao, Mexico, Brazil, Surinam and Peru. Of course, all of these Jews paid their 20,000 ducats, or more, to be allowed to move. When the Queen of Portugal found out about this easy money being made by the king and queen of Spain, she immediately proclaimed that all Jews in Portugal would be forced to be baptized. This unleashed such terror among the Portuguese Jews that they sacrificed everything they had to be allowed to move.

Governments have always done this. They repeatedly set up laws protecting the Jews in their land. They allow special privileges for them to allow them to acquire large sums of money. Then when the citizens en masse reject the Jew for his parasitical tendencies, the government confiscates his wealth. In reality, it is a symbiotic relationship. Both the government and the Jewish community benefit. In the long run, the common citizen, generally Christian in faith, suffers. This is exactly the case in all the land and countries from Mexico to Argentina. It is one reason that we should never have recognized Columbus and those who followed as the discoverers of the Western Hemisphere.

When Cortez landed on the Eastern shore of Mexico with his armed Conquistadores, he unfurled the banners of the Spanish king and planted the Cross on the beach. As he stood there and claimed Mexico for Spain, at his side was his close friend, Hernando Alonso, a marrano! In that small band of Conquistadores, there were six known Jews and it is estimated that there were many more than that.

The hierarchy of the Catholic Church finally realized what was going on. They discovered that the marranos were escaping the Inquisition in Spain by moving to the new world. So, they followed them to the new world and renewed the Inquisition!

This same Hernando Alonso was the first of them to be discovered. He was burned at the stake in 1528. The story of Hernando Alonso tells of just how powerful and rich were the converso marranos within the Spanish government.

His brother-in-law, Eiego de Ordaz, and undoubtedly another marrano, was the representative of the governor of Cuba. Hernando Alonso himself had the second largest ranch in Mexico, second only to the one owned by Cortez himself. Yet, his money and his connections were of no value in the Inquisition.

Many of the Spanish Jews who came to Mexico became ranchers. It was here that they found their refuge. They had no intention of ever returning to Spain. Their families grew and they became the landed gentry. Many of the great haciendas were owned by these people.

Many of the great Spanish land grants were given to them. Of these grants, one of the largest in Mexico, named Nuevo Leon, was established by Jewish Conquistadores. It ran from a place near Mexico City, north along the eastern coast of Mexico, and across the Rio Grande into what is now Texas as far as the present city of San Antonio! The part in modern Mexico is now a whole state! More than one hundred Jewish families joined together and operated this huge ranch. Their labor was cheap, if not free. They interbred with the natives and a new class of people was created called the mestizos.

The grant was given to a Jew named Don Luis de Carvajal, who was to be its Governor General. The Carvajal family was an old and influential and very rich family. One was the Postmaster General of the Indies. One was the director of the House of Trade in Seville that regulated all of the trade to and from the Americas. Also, it was Fernandez Carvajal who was the great military contractor for Oliver Cromwell in England in the 1600's.

In 1545, ONE HALF OF ALL RESIDENTS LIVING IN MEXICO CITY WERE ADMITTED JEWS AND THAT DID NOT INCLUDE THE CONVERSOS AND MARRANOS! The number was so great that the Catholic Church stated that there were more Jews in Mexico City than there were Catholics!

The Bishop of Puerto Rico complained that the Spanish ships were bringing mostly Jews. The Bishop of Cuba complained that every boat from Spain was full of Jews and marranos.

However, among the church leaders many were Jews, also. The Franciscan monk Bernardino de Sahagun was born of Jewish parents. The Archbishop of Mexico, Francisco de Vitoria, was a Jew. The church historian, Father Diego de Duran was a Jew.

The Catholic Church, the nations of Spain and Portugal, and the people of the Spanish Americas, both native and European alike, were to suffer tremendous hardships. All of this was because the government of Spain and the Catholic Church failed the Laws of God. Once the mistake is made it is too late to prevent suffering and we here in the United States have gone down the same path.

Of course, the Catholic Church made matters worse by continuing the Inquisition here in the Americas. They were bound to correct the mistake they had made for allowing the Jews to convert. But they didn't really learn anything. All the while the Church was hunting down the marranos among the conversos, they ordered those conversos whom they thought to be good Catholics to convert the Indians! That was like assigning the fox to guard the hen house!

The secret Jews were very flexible and resilient. As the church got closer and closer to uncovering the names of the marranos, the secret Jews simply changed their names and went into hiding for a while. Very often, they changed their name to a new word that was the name of a flower. This was a code they used so that all of the secret Jews would know each other. Names such as de La Rosa (rose) became common.

Another method they used to escape the Inquisition was to move North into what is now the Southwestern United States. When the Onate expedition moved North into Nueva Espana, now known as New Mexico, secret Jews were with the expedition. They settled in the Santa Fe area of New Mexico and the Carbajal family again became numerous. But with the Inquisition moving behind them, right on their heels, they changed their names.

New Mexico is covered with numerous Spanish land grants. Many of them belonged to the families of marranos. When the United States took over from Mexico the Southwestern part of this country, these secret Jews were out of reach of the Mexican Catholic Church because the United States was not a predominantly Catholic country. However, they still kept their secret to themselves, that is until very recently.

When the modern progeny of these Hispanics in New Mexico and Arizona recognized that the Jews had become entrenched in the high levels of our government and in business, just like they once were in Spain, they began to feel more secure, so they began to speak out and declare their Jewish ancestry.

Believe it or not, that is what is going on right now in the Southwestern part of the country. The Universities in Arizona and New Mexico are beginning studies of this heritage. The larger newspapers are running lengthy articles, with photographs and all, of supposedly Catholic families who have maintained their secret Jewish roots. The purpose of the newspaper articles and university study groups is to encourage them and let all of them know that they have nothing to fear. Many, but not all of them, are responding. Many are still furtive and keep their secret to themselves.

For all of these years, the Hispanics who were secret Jews would go to their Mass in the Catholic Church and then go home and enter into their little prayer room, or little building in the back yard, and recite their Jewish rituals. This is still happening to this very day!

What is the significance of this to us? The lesson is simple. Whenever we permit ourselves to be ruled by a non-Christian, un-Godly government and economic system, we become their spoil. The lesson is repeated over and over in the Old Testament. We seek "strange flesh" and thus become intertwined with strange gods, including the god of Phariseism or Talmudism. All of this is known as worshipping Baalim or the Baals.

Eventually, after we have been nearly destroyed as a people, we will cry unto the Lord. The thought is always given to us to cleanse our land of everything foreign to our faith. It is obvious that once a foreign system is firmly entrenched, they don't give it up without a conflict.

That conflict is imminent and the foreign system now deeply entrenched is fully aware of it. Thus they are frantically trying to thwart the inevitable by preparing for national emergencies, attempting to pass laws such as H.R. 4079, and opening the borders to massive immigration of totally foreign peoples in an attempt to destroy our voting power in the polls.

But the Celto-Saxon American people have become restless. They no longer trust their government. One needs only to ask questions of the average person in mainstream America and the answers are nearly always the same. We are told over and over again that changes must be made in the United States and that a violent upheaval is almost inevitable. Such was the case in Spain in 1492.

May God give us the faith, the strength and the courage to face the future. GOD SAYS WE WILL WIN!!

Future Lessons In History.

In the near future we intend to go into an in-depth study of the lives of many of the so-called famous bank robbers, train robbers and stage coach robbers of the years following the Civil War. Were these men really common criminals or were they continuing the fight against the Boston Brahmins and the Bank of England? Many different source documents will be used in this study.

Another part of the history of the United States that is glossed over by the established historians is that of the famous range wars of the West. Were they just squabbles between ranchers and between ranchers and "sod-busters?" The relationship between the secret purposes of the Masonic Order and the development of the West will be revealed. If there is space, the lesson will also show the Masonic influence in the retaliation against the Catholic Church for the Inquisition in Mexico that is discussed in this issue.
